by Rose Tremain

Pub Lunches 2nd Wednesday at 12:30

October 11th The Rose and Crown, 108 High Street, Sandhurst.

”The Speaker for November 16th will be Patrick Read on Benjamin Jesty, The First Vaccinator

This is a tale of ingenuity and endeavour that began with a chance encounter. We hear of man's early quest for immunity to infection against smallpox. Benjamin Jesty, a Dorset farmer was a fascinating character who brought a new idea to fight against this disease 22 years before Edward Jenner established the practice of vaccination. This talk has been recommended by many other U3A groups.

A date for your diary Christmas Party 21st December 2017

Grandpa Spells

Through popular demand and such positive feedback we have re-booked the same group of musicians who enjoy playing Traditional Jazz.

Come along and clap your hands and tap your feet while you enjoy a Christmas snack meal with your friends

Left Jackie took this Photograph on the September Amble Tony used to be a Scout and goes on the Amble prepared

Right last day of bowling for this year it has been a very enjoyable year thanks to Bob for organizing this for us

Message from Jackie

As many of you are aware I have organised a few events over the last couple of years, i.e. Diple Mill, Skittles evening and Windsor Boat Trip amongst others. From your feedback I know that you have enjoyed them and have asked for more, such as can we do the Windsor Boat Trip again with the fish and chip supper? The last two skittles events were organised by members who are not on the Committee and they proved very successful.

We would love more members to take on the organising of some events or outings rather than leaving it to the Committee all the time, and maybe you could do it with a friend rather than by yourself. We would give you all the assistance needed i.e. payments 'etc'.

Gill Puxley won the September Draw
Starting in OCTOBER the prize draw will be £35

Skittles Evening at Frog and Wicket

The Skittles evening organised by Dave Dickinson was fully booked and everyone enjoyed a fun filled evening full of laughter and friendly banter. Everyone was a winner and helped to make the evening so successful and David wants to thank everyone for their contribution to the fun. The first part of the games saw two teams Men v Women which the men narrowly won by two points. The man with the highest individual score was Ken Middleton, who was presented with a bottle of wine, congratulations to Ken. On the ladies side there was a tie for highest score between Val Green and Joyce Kohler and a nail biting shoot out resulted in Joyce being presented with a bottle of wine, congratulations to Joyce. The second part of the competition was a Round of Killer where all players start with three lives, losing a life each time they fail to score. One by one players were eliminated and the final play off was between Sue Puxley with two lives and John Barkaway with one life. As the tension mounted Sue lost one life and so they each had only one life left in the final stage of the game, which Sue won after a very close finish, congratulations to Sue who was presented with a box of chocolates.

Old male wishing to be anonymous

I think that looking at tennis, to use a hackneyed phrase, is: "Like watching paint dry!" and was not looking forward to Julia Freeman talking about her life in that sport.

How wrong could I be, for I found her jolly presentational skills and encyclopaedic knowledge well worth the numb bum of sitting on our very hard seats for 40 minutes or so.

I was pleasantly surprised to have found myself enjoying that time spent. Hearing and watching our members' response I think that they all enjoyed it as well.

I suppose there's a lesson there somewhere even if it's only not to prejudge the programme and to give everything a chance. Let's face it, our speaker secretary Jackie usually comes up with the goods.
